X-Rite Announces Exclusive New Video Interview Featuring John Paul Caponigro

Fine artist shares his views on photography, finding beauty in the most unexpected moments, and the importance of professional color management

Elmsford, NY – May 25, 2011 – X-Rite Photo Marketing announces the availability of an exclusive new video interview featuring world-renowned professional nature photographer and artist John Paul Caponigro. During “Exploring Beauty, Color & Nature”, John Paul Caponigro shares his philosophy on photography, color and the world around us. Viewers can watch as he creates images in his unique style and see the process through his eyes.

John Paul Caponigro sees photography as an invitation to go out and explore; he has an amazing gift of being able to find beauty in the most unexpected moments and record them in rich detail.

Viewers will also learn how John Paul takes color perfection to a new level with the new X-Rite i1Photo Pro to ensure there is no guesswork or wasted time throughout his creative process. The video shows how his beautiful moments are preserved just as they were in nature, from capture, to view to print.

“John Paul is an artist known the world around for his expertise in photography, creativity and fine art digital printing,” said Mark Rezzonico, vice president X-Rite Photo Marketing. “His creative fine art style to photographing the natural world is as breathtaking as it is unique. To get the chance to share this exclusive video interview where John Paul shares his insights on photography and the importance of color management with the imaging community is such an honor.”

“The benefit of color management to me personally simply can not be over stated,” said John Paul Caponigro. “I save a lot of time getting high quality results faster. The bottom line is color management lets me make visual decisions about color with much more precision than I ever could before. The i1Photo Pro makes sophisticated tasks that once were complex, easy and affordable.”
